

ReGEN acquires one A319 passenger aircraft on lease to British Airways

Aviation Component Trading Unit of Global Lessor Genesis marks its first leased aircraft acquisition and welcomes British Airways as a new customer

25th July, 2024: ReGEN, the global aircraft & component trading company headquartered in Dublin, Ireland and part of the Genesis group, today announces the acquisition of ReGEN's first on-lease aircraft, an IAE powered A319-100 and welcomes British Airways as its' first aircraft leasing customer.

Commenting on the acquisition, Karl Griffin CEO of Genesis stated "We are privileged to welcome British Airways as ReGEN's first aircraft leasing customer. Genesis established ReGEN in 2023 to support the developing global aerospace supply chain challenges while enhancing our service offering to the world's airline customer community across the complete life-cycle of commercial aircraft, engine and components. Today we have taken the next step forward with ReGEN by acquiring this on lease aircraft which ensures ReGEN will have a dependable pipeline of equipment well into the future."
